The rainy or winter season in Burkina Faso lasts from May-June to the end of September or beginning of October, and reaches its peak in August. It is therefore likely that the risk of flooding is higher during this period.