Foreign nationals transiting through Australia to another country don't need to apply for an exemption to re-enter Australia if they are booked on a connecting flight from the same airport and they are not going to leave the airport. If you plan to leave the airport before boarding your connecting flight, or if you will be at the airport for longer than eight hours, you will need to apply for a travel exemption. You can apply online.

Australians and New Zealanders must apply for permission to undergo a 14-day quarantine at home. This does not apply to passengers under 18 years old, passengers above 70 years old, pregnant women and their family members, and passengers on their own expenses.

All passengers arriving at XMN will be quarantined for medical observation at the designated hotels for 14 days. Airline crew arriving at Shanghai Pudong (PVG) or Shanghai Hongqiao (SHA) will be quarantined after they finish their work duties. If the crew is already away from Shanghai when the positive test result is available, the carrier will be informed by the Chinese immigration authorities at the designated site for institutional quarantine. The crew whose COVID-19 testing result is positive will be isolated by the authorities at the nominated site for 14 (Fourteen) days.

Chinese nationals, nationals of India and nationals of Bangladesh who have been in China in the last 14 days will not be allowed to board any flight to China.

- Extension of Public Health Emergency Declaration. Unless Congressan Resolution 21-138 advised that rare exceptions for travel to the FSM may include capacity-building personnel and medical referral patients, Resolution 21-149 expands this potential list to include human remains and the medical and family attendants thereof, as well as Government officials whose duties are "vital and indispensable." While screening and quarantine procedures would remain in affect, and said travel might only be allowed given the sound advice of the FSM National Task Force and the relevant State Task Force, the Resolution allows the potential repatriation of some categories of individuals under some specific circumstances.
