- Nauru

Fiji’s border remains closed for now and only Fijian citizens are allowed to return on repatriation flights. Fiji is allowing nationals of certain countries to return. The Cook Islands and Micronesia are both on this list. Fiji’s Government has announced new rules for tourists arriving from Australia, New Zealand and Samoa. All visitors must take a COVID-19 test 72 hours before their flight and provide a negative test result to the airport. They will be required to self isolate for 14 days in a hotel in Fiji. The Government is also implementing a ‘Bula Bubble’ scheme for Australians and New Zealanders. They can win a four-day visit to Fiji, staying in quarantine residences. Extra masks may be issued if required. Alternative arrival protocols, if required, include: • Option One: Intending tourists must present a certificate from a recognised medical institution certifying their 14 days of quarantine in their home country, along with proof of a negative COVID test result within 96 hours of their departure for Fiji, at which point they can remotely check-in their "Bula Bubble" holiday with confirmed VIP land. • Option Two: Upon arrival in Fiji, they can complete 14 days of quarantine at their own cost in a Fijian government designated quarantine centre or a hotel of their choosing, after which a negative COVID test can earn their "Bula Bubble" vacation.
