China	Hong Kong		(Hong Kong SAR) The Governments of Hong Kong and Singapore today (November 11) announced the detailed arrangements of the bilateral Air Travel Bubble (ATB), with designated flights to be launched on November 22. Under the ATB arrangement, travellers between the two places will not be subject to any quarantine arrangements upon arrival, nor restrictions to their travel purposes or itineraries on the condition that they comply with a set of anti-epidemic protocols: ATB travellers must have tested negative in mutually recognised tests taken within 72 hours before their departure. They must also have no travel history to any places other than Singapore or Hong Kong in the last 14 days prior to their departure. The ATB travellers must increase progressively, from one flight per day in the first 15 days to two flights per day thereafter depending on the actual implementation. Each designated flight can carry a maximum of 200 ATB travellers. All ATB travellers must undertake COVID-19 tests again via a designated lane at the airport upon arrival at Hong Kong, and then wait at a restricted area of the airport until the receipt of negative test results. ATB to be instantly and flexibly adjusted depending on the epidemic situation of both places and travellers' demands. In short, if the seven-day moving average of the daily number of unlinked local COVID-19 cases is more than five for either Singapore or Hong Kong, the ATB arrangement will be suspended for two weeks. If the relevant figure reported on the last day of the suspension period does not exceed the specified threshold of five, the ATB arrangement can resume. China	All airports		Air Crew: the testing and self-isolation arrangement of air crew who arrive at Hong Kong via Airport The first thing is to identify the air crew members as local-based or non-local based crew. Airlines should provide each air crew member a letter certifying whether he/she is a local or non-local based crew. Those who do not possess the airline certification letter will be regarded as non-local based crew. For local based crew, they should proceed to Department of Health (DH)'s Temporary Specimen Collection Centre (TSCC) for collection of deep throat saliva sample and then they can leave for their accommodation agreed by the airline for self-isolation. They should self-isolate for 48 hours or until the next flight, whichever is earlier. Non-local based crew are recommended to possess a negative result of SARS-CoV-2 nucleic acid test done at an ISO15189-accredited laboratory or a laboratory recognized by the Government where the laboratory is located with the specimen collected within 48 hours prior to boarding the flight to Hong Kong for duty (i.e. a pre-departure negative result). The airline should declare on a letter of certification that the crew member concerned has been tested negative. Upon arrival at Hong Kong, all air crew members (no matter local or non-local based) must also submit a deep throat saliva specimen at the TSCC. For those non-local based crew who possess a pre-departure negative result and a certification letter issued by the airline, they can leave for their hotel for self-isolation after specimen collection and no need to wait for the result. For those who do NOT possess a pre-departure negative result, they have to wait at DH's TSCC or other location designated by DH until their test results are confirmed negative. Non-local based crew members have to self isolate at the hotel room arranged by the airline until departure from Hong Kong on their next flight. Point-to-point transportation must be arranged by airlines between HKIA/TSCC and their hotels or accommodation. Use of public transport including MTR, Airport Express, and taxi for crew transfer is prohibited. Crew members must wear masks during the entire journey to and from the HKIA/TSCC.
