Australia	All airports		Before you travel to Australia, you should complete the Australia Travel Declaration at least 72 hours before your departure for Australia. The Australia Travel Declaration collects your contact details in Australia, flight details, quarantine requirements and your health status. This information helps the Australian Government determine your quarantine arrangements (if required) and also allows the relevant health departments to contact you if someone you travelled with tests positive for COVID-19.	UFN	Australian Department of Home Affairs, 21 December 2020	https://covid19.homeaffairs.gov.au/
Australia	All airports		You can travel to Australia if you are an Australian citizen, a permanent resident or a New Zealand citizen usually resident in Australia. China	Hong Kong		(Hong Kong SAR) The Governments of Hong Kong and Singapore today (November 11) announced the detailed arrangements of the bilateral Air Travel Bubble (ATB), with designated flights to be launched on November 22. Under the ATB arrangement, travellers between the two places will not be subject to any quarantine arrangements upon arrival, nor restrictions to their travel purposes or itineraries on the condition that they comply with a set of anti-epidemic protocols: ATB travellers must have tested negative in mutually recognised tests taken within 72 hours before their departure. They must also have no travel history to any places other than Singapore or Hong Kong in the last 14 days prior to their departure. The ATB travellers must travel on designated flights to minimise risks. The number of designated flights arriving at Hong Kong will increase progressively, from one flight per day in the first 15 days to two flights per day thereafter depending on the actual implementation. Each designated flight can carry a maximum of 200 ATB travellers. All ATB travellers must undertake COVID-19 tests again via a designated lane at the airport upon arrival at Hong Kong, and then wait at a restricted area of the airport until the receipt of negative test results. ATB will be instantly and flexibly adjusted depending on the epidemic situation of both places and travellers' demands. In short, if the seven-day moving average of the daily number of unlinked local COVID-19 cases is more than five for either Singapore or Hong Kong, the ATB arrangement will be suspended for two weeks. If the relevant figure reported on the last day of the suspension period does not exceed the specified threshold of five, the ATB arrangement can resume. The key features of the ATB are as follows: (a) there are no restrictions on travel purpose; (b) travellers under the ATB will be subject to mutually recognised COVID-19 polymerase chain reaction tests and would need to have negative test results; (c) travellers under the ATB will not be subject to any quarantine or Stay-Home Notice requirements, or a controlled itinerary; (d) travellers under the ATB will be required to travel on dedicated flights, i.e. these flights will only serve ATB travellers and no transit passengers or non-ATB travellers will be allowed on board; and (e) the ATB can be scaled by adjusting the number of dedicated flights upwards or downwards, or even suspended, in line with the latest developments and COVID-19 situation in the two cities. Tokelau	All airports		Work has commenced for the journey home for those who have already registered for repatriation. Limited seats have been made available for us by Samoa on their following repatriation flights from Auckland: 1. Friday 13 November 2020, 2. Friday 4 th December 2020 and 3. Monday 7 th December 2020. We are also currently exploring an opportunity to bring our remaining students and essential workers in Fiji directly to Apia rather than through Auckland. This flight is scheduled for December 8th , 2020. Given the limited number of seats available, these are being allocated to our students, patients, public servants, essential workers and those who had registered for repatriation by the end of last month. This is over 100 people. For this reason, repatriation is being done in groups.
